Tendered Reception And Shower

Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Merritt, Jr., of near Warwick, Md., were tendered a reception at their home, Friday evening last, and more than 400 guests were present from Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The home was tastefully decorated for the occasion, the color scheme being green and white. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Merritt were Miss Agnes Merritt, daughter of the groom, Mrs. James A. Money, the bride's mother and Miss Nellie Bishop. Mr. and Mrs. Merritt received many beautiful gifts including cut glass, silver, hand-painted china, furniture, linen, etc.

The Queen Esther Circle, of Bethesda M. E. Church, of which the bride is a member, tendered her a variety shower, at her home Wednesday evening. About seventy of the members and her friends were present, and she received many more useful and beautiful gifts. The evening was pleasantly spent in games, music, and social conversation and delicious refreshments were served.

The Firemen's Carnival

The committee in charge of the Firemen's Carnival have had four large banners strung across the roads leading to town announcing that their carnival will be held from June 24th to July 1st. The committee is also purchasing large quantities of goods to be sold at the carnival.

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH NOTES

EPISCOPAL

Sunday, May 14th, 1922. 4th Sunday after Easter.

Services: 10:30 A. M. Morning prayer and sermon.

11:45 A. M. Church School.

7:30 P. M. Evening prayer and address.

An Offering for the Near East Relief will be received on Sunday. Let us have a generous response to help alleviate the sufferings of the poor starving children in the lands of famine. There food stuffs are exhausted. Bread is being made from all sorts of substitutes, including flax, chaff and sawdust. The people are extracting undigested materials from old refuse and giving it to the children. Intestinal and skin diseases due to malnutrition are general. Only one in 50 of the population is normal. The death list among the thousands of orphan children is appalling. There are even reports of cases where the people have so lost their senses from hunger that they have lapsed into cannibalism. Help all you can. Our Lord said, in St. Matthew 25:40, "Verily, I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye do it unto the least of these My brethren ye do it unto Me".

About 700 members of the Sunday Schools of the Diocese met in a service at St. Andrew's Church, Wilmington, on Sunday to present the offerings they had accumulated during Lent for the missions of the church. The Bishop presents a banner to the school that makes the best showing in the amount of its total offering.

The Offering for the Parish Coal Fund will be received on Sunday, May 28th.

BETHESDA CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST

Sunday, May 14th, 1922.

9:30 A. M. The Sunday morning devotional meeting of the Brotherhood.

11:45 A. M. Sunday School.

The pastor has heard for years that the three sweetest words in the English language are, "Mother, Home and Heaven". As Sunday is the day set apart for the observance of Mother's Day, the subject of the morning sermon at 10:30 A. M. will be, "The Influence of A Mother", and in the evening at 7:30 P. M. it will be, "Home". We are expecting big congregations at both of these Sunday services. Therefore if you want a good seat, and want it where you want it, better come early. It is also expected that the members of the Sunday School will all be present in honor of their mothers.

Autos will call for all mothers who desire a way to the morning service.

Prayer and Praise Service on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies will be held at the home of Mrs. E. D. Hearn on South Broad street, Monday evening, May 15th, at 7:30 o'clock.

The First Quarterly Conference for Bethesda Methodist Episcopal Church will be held Thursday evening, May 18th, at 8 o'clock, at the church.

PRESBYTERIAN

Sunday, May 14th, 1922.

10:30 A. M. Morning service. Sermon by the pastor.

11:45 A. M. Sunday School.

7:30 P. M. Evening service. Sermon by the pastor.

Mid-week service, Wednesday, 7:30 P. M.

Boy Scout meeting every Friday at 7:00 P. M.

This Sunday is Mother's Day and we should have a good attendance. There are very few mothers who do not desire that their children should attend upon the services of the Lord's House. Most mothers would rejoice to know that their sons and daughters are taking their places in the family of God. Will you not help to bring about the realization of your mother's prayers for you? If she is living, her eyes will glow with an inward joy to know that her own boy and girl are engaged in the service of the Heavenly Father. If she is dead, you can do reverence by doing your duty as you know she wished you to do. Let the thoughts of mother's love and hopes for you inspire you to noble action and genuine service.

Our stock of Millinery, Trimmings, etc., is complete. A share of your patronage is solicited. MRS. ETHEL P. TYLER.

Fine Minstrel Show

The Legion Minstrels of Smyrna, under the direction of Mr. Charles D. Campbell of New York, gave a performance in the New Century Club house, Thursday evening, and delighted those in attendance. Their numerous songs and jokes were well received, and the entire production was a credit to Smyrna's local talent.

Are You an Ex-Service Man

The United Y. M. C. A. Schools, of New York City, have an ad. in this week's issue of The Transcript that should be especially interesting to the ex-service men of this section. If you are one of the number who served with Uncle Sam during the World War read this advertisement.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Many Condensed News Items of the Past Week

IN THIS AND NEARBY POINTS

Smyrna Council has reduced the tax rate from 85c to 75c on the hundred.

The dance given by the Chesapeake City, Md., Fire Company last Friday evening netted about $80, it was stated.

It is reported that dredging will begin at the Chesapeake City, Md., terminus of the C. & D. Canal in about two weeks.

Mr. Elwood Brown has purchased the house on West Main street, of Mrs. W. B. Biggs now tenanted by Mr. Walter Beasten.

Arthur Ruley, colored, of Cecilton, Md., has been sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction for using a razor in a quarrel.

The Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion will hold a Bake on Saturday, May 20th, at W. S. Letherbury's store on Main street.

The Pleasant-Summit W. C. T. U. will hold a festival on the grounds of Strasbaugh's cannery May 31st, at Mt. Pleasant. The public is invited.

Contractor John Garner has begun working on the property of Mr. B. Frank Gallagher, on East Main street, where he will erect a modern dwelling and storehouse.

To-morrow (Sunday), May 14, will be Mother's Day. A white carnation is the emblematic flower, but other white blossoms are often used. A white heart will give the greatest honor.

Albert Kumpel, of Port Penn, has leased the Augustine Beach Hotel for the summer and is re-decorating the interior. Several new bathhouses are under construction at this beach.

By order of the Odessa Parent-Teacher Association a sectional bookcase has been added to Miss Scott's room, in the public school, their library having increased over 100 volumes.

Sturgeons are being caught in greater numbers in the Delaware river than for many years past. Five sturgeons were caught by Delaware City and four by New Castle fishermen, during the past week.

The grammar grades of the Middletown Public School, held a bake in the school building last Saturday, which netted them the sum of $42.01. This money will be used in beautifying the rooms of the grammar grades.

The teacher and pupils of Middle Neck School will hold a "Clothes Pin Social" in the school building, Saturday evening, May 20th. Ice cream, cake, candy and peanuts for sale. Proceeds for school purposes. Everybody welcome.

Lieut. Harry Hickman and George Giverson, of Port Penn, caught a large sturgeon in the river near that place, last week, which netted them when sold the handsome sum of $357. This is the largest sturgeon caught in that section for many years.

Under the joint auspices of the Varsity Club and the Footlights Club, students of the University of Delaware will present their annual spring frolic in Wolf Hall, Newark, on the evening of May 18. The frolic will be known as the "Blue Heel Minstrel" and there will be a number of specialties on the program.

Delaware has more bearing apple trees to a square mile than any other State in the country, it has been announced by the census bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture. The apple tree distribution is 548 to one square mile. New York ranks second, with an average of 287 trees to one square mile. Virginia comes third, with an average of 255 trees, and the State of Washington ranks fourth with 130.

Helping Motorists

According to information obtained this week the motorists of Delaware are going to co-operate in a short time and make efforts to have poles along trans state highways marked to guide the motorists who are not acquainted with the roads of the State.

The suggestion has been made that the poles along north and south routes carry blue stripes while those on east and west routes carry yellow stripes.

Such a movement would be welcomed not only by motorists from other states but many of Delaware's automobile owners would like to see this work completed.

Another suggestion that will probably be made by motorists is that telegraph poles at dangerous curves and cross roads be painted white up several feet from the ground.

It is claimed that the State Highway Commission will be asked to co-operate in this work.

OBITUARY

Harry Morris

The body of Harry Morris, aged 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. Enos Morris, former residents of Middletown, but now residing near Taylors Bridge, was found Sunday morning along the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad, about one mile south of Newark station. The man had evidently been struck by a train. Both arms were severed from the body, one leg was off and his head was smashed in.

It is supposed that Morris got off a southbound train at Newark station at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night. A man answering his description got off the train a little later, started down the tracks. The watchman at the crossing, seeing the man warned him about walking on the tracks. The man replied that he was going to see his brother, near Iron Hill bridge. It was 4 o'clock Sunday morning when a track walker found the body.

Deceased was an ex-service man having spent a year in France, and was employed by Mr. Sartin, a farmer near Glasgow.

Funeral services were held in Bethel M. E. Church, Wednesday afternoon and interment was made in the adjoining cemetery.

Simeon Lord

News of the death of Simeon Lord which occurred at his home in Philadelphia, Tuesday, reached this section the same day, and was a great shock to this veteran's numerous friends here.

Mr. Lord will be remembered as the genial host of Augustine Beach, where he resided for several years previous to his retirement from business when he moved to Philadelphia where he has since resided. Deceased was a veteran of the Civil War, and served in the same Pennsylvania Company as did the late Horatio W. Pharo, Sr. He was aged 83 years. Funeral services were held at his late home in Philadelphia Thursday, and the remains interred in that city.

NEW CENTURY CLUB NOTES

The last meeting, until fall, of the New Century Club, was held Tuesday afternoon, and was one of the most delightful afternoons ever given at the club.

The new officers were installed as follows: President, Mrs. A. M. Chamberlain; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Clarence Pool; 2d Vice President, Mrs. W. K. Betts; Recording Secretary, Miss Bernice D. Metten; Assistant Recording Sec., Mrs. L. A. Dreka; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. G. L. Cochran; Treasurer, Mrs. Julian Cleaver.

The club presented the retiring President, Mrs. Clarence Pool, with a beautiful basket of flowers, in token of their appreciation of her services during her two years in office.

After the installation of officers, Mrs. Jesse L. Shepherd, chairman for the day, took charge of the program, and the club is indebted to her for a most enjoyable musical treat.

Mrs. Sonia R. Tarnumian furnished the following program: (1) Autumn, Chaminade; (2) Waltz E Minor, Chopin; (3) Voice, A Spring Carol, Henry E. Grubel, Miss Mary B. Roberts; (4) Nocturne C Sharp Minor, Chopin; (5) Etude, Arensky; (6) Valse De Concert, Wieniawski; (7) Voice, Make Up, Montague F. Phillips, Miss Mary B. Roberts; (8) Rigoletto Paraphrase, Liszt.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Tarnumian was presented with a large basket of flowers. Miss Roberts received a beautiful bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Helen Brady, club hostess, and her assistants served brick ice cream and delicious cakes.

Middletown Defeated Dela. Bronze

The Middletown base ball club added another victory to its credit last Saturday afternoon, when the Delaware Bronze team of Wilmington, was defeated by the score of 9 to 4. The visitors were out-classed by the locals who secured 17 safe drives off of the visiting slab artist. Joe Clay pitched a remarkable game, allowing the visitors but six hits, while Whitlock, Middletown's junior pitcher, finished the game without allowing his opponents a single hit.

The score by innings follows: Dela. Bronze.....0 0 1 0 1 0 1 0 1 4 Middletown.....2 2 0 1 0 0 4 x-9

MASSEY TO-DAY

The Massey, (Md) base ball team will be the attraction at Academy Park this (Saturday) afternoon at 3 o'clock. Massey's always comes padded and a good game is assured. Clay, Whitlock and McGory will be the battery for Middletown. Massey, Robinson, Starkey and Jones.

In Memoriam

In memory of our brother Harry Morris, who departed this life, Saturday, May 6th.

Dear brother Harry, thou hast left us, Here thy loss we deeply feel, But 'tis God that has bereft us, He can all our sorrows heal.

GOVERNMENT COST CUT OVER BILLION

President Submits Dawes' Report to Congress

ECONOMIES AND SAVINGS

New Methods Being Used—Credit Given To Heads Of Departments For Successful Co-Operation.

Washington.—Government expenditures for 1922 will be approximately $1,600,000,000 less than the actual outlay for the preceding year. Congress was informed by President Harding on transmitting the report of Director Dawes, of the budget on economies and savings in Governmental business.

The report of Director Dawes, made public by the White House, is for submission to the House Appropriations Committee in connection with a pending resolution by Representative Byrns, Democrat, of Tennessee, asking the President to inform the House in what ways direct savings of $32,000,000 and indirect savings of $104,000,000, as previously announced by the President to have been accomplished by the Budget Bureau during its first six months of operation, have been made.

Actual cost of the routine business of government, the President declared in his letter of transmission to Chairman Madden, has been reduced by $307,500,000, of which sum $250,000,000 may be accredited to more efficient and economic administration of the Government's business.

Presenting figures that "will fully convey to the Congress the helpful results attending the inauguration of a more efficient business system," the President's letter said:

"It will be noted that in the expenditures of the Government for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1922, after eliminating the estimates of the public debt, operations in capital funds and similar accounts, all of which tend to confuse our understanding of the actual cost of the routine business of government, there has been a reduction in the expenditures of administration over the outlay for 1921 of $907,500,000. These highly gratifying figures relate to reduced expenditures which come under the influence of executive pressure, and do not include $700,000,000 of other reductions which are not related to the routine business of government. Compared with this reduction of $907,500,000, the Director of the Budget detailed $250,134,835.03 as the sum representing the savings and economies which may be fairly accredited to the new system of administration and the widespread commitment throughout the various departments to effect a more efficient and economic administration of the Government's business. Of this sum about $12,000,000 represents postponed construction and maintenance, which will probably be unnecessary under the reduced program of next year.

"It affords an interesting comparison to note that the expenditures for the current fiscal year were estimated last December by the Director of the Budget at $2,967,922,366, and that the actual expenditures will be $45,552,366 less than that estimated. With this reduction the expenditures for the year will be $3,922,372,030, which is approximately $1,600,000,000 less than the actual outlay for the preceding fiscal year."

ASK DAUGHERTY FOR FACTS.

Johnson And Woodruff Challenge Him To Prove Charges.

Washington.—Proof of Attorney-General's Daugherty's recent charge that the attack upon him in connection with slow prosecution of war graft cases is directed by persons who have not revealed their identity was demanded by Representatives Johnson and Woodruff, who have been leading the attack upon him in the House. In a letter to the Attorney-General they challenged him to prove that anyone besides themselves is responsible for their statements.

MASKED MEN ROB MEETING.

A canceled check showing she had bought it here in 1920, and statements by two Fifth avenue jewelers verifying the purchase, were offered in her behalf.

JUDGE EVANS DIES

Federal Jurist For Southern District Of Georgia.

Savannah, Ga.—Judge Beverly D. Evans, aged 57, United States District Judge for the Southern District, of Georgia, died suddenly at his home here from a paralytic stroke.

A graduate of Yale, practically his entire life from the time he left that institution was spent in practice of law either on the bench or bar of his native State. He was appointed a justice of the State Supreme Court in 1904, and presiding justice in 1907. After 13 years as head of the highest State tribunal, Judge Evans resigned to accept the Federal judgeship, which he held until his death.

CONVICTS SHOT IN PRISON RIOT

South Carolina Prisoners Refuse to Obey An Order

TRY TO BURN CHAIR PLANT

Through Leaders They Defied The Authorities And Announced They Would Not Return To Work.

Columbia, S. C.—A mutiny of 150 convicts in the State penitentiary was quieted after 14 of the mutineers had been wounded by penitentiary guards and city police, two of them being perhaps fatally shot.

The fire chief said the disorder started when a group of prisoners, starting from lunch in the main dining-room, attacked the guards who were escorting them.

An attempt by the convicts to burn the penitentiary chair factory failed.

The outbreak came after the dinner hour. The prisoners were sullen, it is said, because they had been ordered to turn in what civilian clothes and other articles they had which were not needed by them in prison. Through certain apparent leaders they defied the authorities and announced they would not return to work. Aid was asked of the city authorities by the telephone.

No effort was made to coerce the prisoners pending the arrival of reinforcements from the city. In the meantime, the mutineers stood in the penitentiary yard, armed with sticks and knives obtained from the chair factory.

Upon the arrival of the detachment of city police the mob of prisoners surged toward the little group of blue-coated officers, cursing, snarling and threatening. A volley from riot guns met them, and 14 men dropped. The remainder broke and tried to run. They were rounded up without further trouble.

MEXICAN COMMISSION PROPOSED

International Body To Canvass Situation Urged.

Washington.—Creation of an international commission to canvass the whole field of relations between the United States and Mexico was suggested in official circles as a possible means of reaching an agreement to permit American recognition of the Mexico City government of General Obregon.

So far as details were revealed, it was indicated that neither the Harding Administration nor the Obregon authorities had been formally committed to the commission plan. There were indications, however, that the suggestion was being looked upon with favor by some officials both in Washington and in the Mexican capital.

SIX MONTHS FOR EGYPTOLOGIST.

Lorenzo Dow Covington Convicted In New York.

New York.—Charged with possessing indecent pictures and literature, Lorenzo Dow Covington, of Covington, Ky., 60-year-old Egyptologist and lecturer, who was at one time suggested as a United States consul, was sent to jail for six months. Covington was said to have appeared as a lecturer in most of the big cities of the country and was reported to have been a member of the Royal Geographical Society, of England, proposed by the late Sir Ernest Shackleton.

MEXICAN TROOPS KILL BANDIT.

Attempt Of Alleged U. S. Robber To Rob Paymaster Ends Tragically.

Mexico City.—Monte Michael, alleged to be an American, with six men entered a small camp near Zacamitla, maintained by the International Petroleum Company, and demanded that the paymaster surrender the funds in his possession. The paymaster refused, and while a struggle was in progress Federal troops entered the camp and shot and killed Michael and dispersed the members of his band. Michael's body was taken to the City Hall in Tampico, where it was placed on exhibition.

LAY DEATHS TO PASSENGERS.

New York.—Two-thirds of the 229 fatalities that overtook railway passengers in 1920 were wholly or partly the fault of the passengers themselves, said the Safety Section of the American Railway Association in making public accident statistics for the year.

Sixty-four persons were struck or run over, 28 were killed in falls from coach steps, 18 by falls from moving trains and 10 by jumping from trains while mentally deranged or to escape penal servitude. The cause of the other fatalities was not disclosed.

TERMS FROWNED UPON BY RUSSIANS

Absence of Recognition and Government Loan Resented

FRANCE IS WITH BELGIUM

Finances Taken Up—All Leaders Express Satisfaction At Plenary Session Of Genoa Conference.

Genoa.—The Russians are "not delighted" with the project of the Powers for the reconstruction of Russia. Such is the brief summary emanating from Soviet sources of the Bolshevik views on the memorandum on which Europe's statesmen have worked so laboriously.

The fact that the document does not mention recognition of the Soviet Government and ignores the suggestion of governmental loans is said to displease the Communist leaders, who are now conferring with Moscow.

Belgium has not signed the memorandum and word was received here that France had determined to stand by Belgium, but as yet there is no official announcement in Genoa of France's action. It is believed that the conversations between Premier Poincare and M. Barthou, however, will have an important general effect on the Conference.

All the leaders expressed satisfaction, believing that it embodied the inauguration of far-reaching efforts to improve the finances of Europe. The financial code at Genoa has been written, declared Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, chairman of the Financial Commission, and he believed it would prove as important as the historic Justinian Civil code, the basis of world jurisprudence.

The essential points are limitation of the issue of paper money, fixing party with gold, economizing in the use of gold and co-ordination of gold. The United States, said the chairman, with almost half the world's gold could join in the future study of the problems without involving itself in political difficulties and could help Europe as well as herself.

The other speakers at the session were Signor Schanzer, of Italy, M. Schulthess, of Switzerland, M. Picard, of France, M. Tschitcherine, of Russia, and Dr. Rathenau, of Germany. M. Tschitcherine alluded to the rights of communism and declared that it was impossible for the Russian Government to renounce its control over exchange operations, despite the fact that the financial report characterized this control as mischievous.

The financial report, like the memorandum of the Powers to the Russians, emphasizes that assistance to disorganized countries should take the form of private, not governmental credits. M. Tschitcherine insisted on Government loans, and in this indorsed the views of M. Rakovsky, who had publicly declared that the Soviet as the Russian Government expected a loan from the Powers.

In conclusion M. Tschitcherine voiced the conviction that it was only by economic collaboration of two worlds whose policy is based on different economic systems that mankind could move towards reconstruction and peace.

Dr. Rathenau declared that from the Genoa Conference the world not only expected theses and theories, but hoped that the representatives of the great nations would give evidence of energetic efficiency and immediate cooperation with respect to economic and social needs of great urgency. He voiced a warning that 10,000,000 people were without work and something must be done for them.

CANADA MAY NAME U. S. ENVOY.

Prime Minister Says Government Is Considering Step.

Ottawa, Ontario.—W. L. Mackenzie-King, Prime Minister, announced that the Dominion Government was considering the appointment of a Canadian Minister to Washington.

His announcement was made in reply to E. M. MacDonald, Liberal member of the House of Commons for Picton, N. S., who declared that there should be devised a more direct method of handling diplomatic questions arising between Canada and the United States than the present one of going through the British Embassy at Washington.

ANNOUNCES NEW FARM LOANS.

War Finance Body Makes Advances Totalling $1,765,000.

Washington.—Approval of 82 advances for agricultural and live-stock purposes aggregating $1,765,000 was announced by the War Finance Corporation.

Distribution of the loans included: Alabama, $25,000; Colorado, $187,000; Idaho, $175,000; Illinois, $65,000; Iowa, $126,000; Kansas, $40,000; Kentucky, $126,000; Montana, $67,000; Nebraska, $71,000; North Dakota, $71,000; Ohio, $20,000; Oklahoma, $43,000; Oregon, $7,000; South Dakota, $12,000; Texas, $69,000; Utah, $233,000; Washington, $52,000; Wisconsin, $20,000, and Wyoming, $31,000.

TWO BIG LOANS REPAYED.

Washington.—Repayment of an advance of $5,000,000 obtained in January, 1920, by the Baldwin Locomotive Works and of an advance of $4,000,000 made to the International Harvester Company, Chicago, in 1920, was announced by the War Finance Corporation.

The Baldwin company, the corporation said, repaid its loan eight and a half months in advance of maturity, while the Harvester company's repayment was about one year in advance of maturity.

DAIRY FACTS

SAFE MILK SUPPLY INSURED

Suggested That Two or More Small Towns Hire Inspector and Maintain Laboratory.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Milk inspection is of prime necessity. In most of the larger cities laboratories are maintained where bacteria counts and chemical analyses are frequently made on samples collected from retail delivery wagons, stores, and restaurants. But the small cities and towns that cannot afford the expense of a tester and laboratory find it hard to give proper supervision to their milk supplies.

The United States Department of Agriculture suggests that a practical way for such cities and towns to insure a safe milk supply is through the co-operation of two or more adjacent towns in hiring a milk inspector and maintaining a laboratory. The cost of supervising such a plan may be prorated among the different towns on the basis of population without the expense being burdensome to any one of them. State and federal authorities are always willing to co-operate in work of this sort.

This plan of town co-operation in milk and dairy inspection has been carried out in different parts of the country, probably the most conspicuous example being the group of towns in northern New Jersey known as "The Oranges." In these towns the plan has been in use for a number of years with results that have been very satisfactory to all concerned.

MARKS OF GOOD DAIRY COW

Angularity and Leanness Should Be Apparent When in Milk—Mammary System Important.

A good dairy cow should show angularity and leanness in appearance when in milk. A feminine head; a bright, full eye; a wide muzzle and large open nostrils indicate dairy temperament. The chest should be full and deep, giving ample room for large heart and lung development. A long, deep, wide body with well-arched ribs gives room for handling large amounts of feed. And of extreme importance is a well-developed mammary system made up of long, branching milk veins entering large milk wells; teats of convenient and uniform size; good shape and well placed; in the udder and an udder that is large, well shaped and has a mellow, flexible handling quality.

DAIRY COWS WORK HARDEST

Animals Give From Five to Ten Times Their Weight in Milk—Need Best of Feed.

People seldom think of the dairy cow as a hard working animal, yet it is a fact that she works harder than other domestic animals. Every year she gives from five to ten times her weight in milk, containing as much actual dry matter as do the bodies of two or three steers. It requires approximately the same amount of energy to produce 20 pounds of milk as it does to plow an acre of land. This gives us some conception of the enormous amount of work the cow does and indicates why she should be well fed and cared for.—Utah Farmer.

Best Roughage for Cows.

Clover hay is one of the best of all roughages for the cow. It furnishes large amounts of crude protein so essential to milk production and is palatable and much relished. Clover hay is unusually rich in lime and lime is also needed.

Plant Food Removed.

A ton of butter removes only seventy cents worth of plant food from the farm, while the sale of the feeds that produce it would carry away over $400 in soil fertility.

More Protein Needed.

When a cow receives too much corn or other fattening feed, she usually takes on fat instead of producing milk. The difficulty is eliminated by introducing more protein into her ration, or decreasing the amount of corn and other fattening feeds.

Cow Is Underfed.

The cow that keeps up her milk flow, but declines in weight, is underfed. She needs more nourishing feed without delay, so she will have a well nourished body.

Ataman of Cossacks Runs Into Trouble

Had Gen. Gregory Semenov, former "Ataman of the Cossacks," known what awaited him in the United States on his way to Paris, probably he would have gone some other way. First he was arrested in New York on charges by the receiver of the Youravets Home and Foreign Trading company. Claims arising from alleged looting on the part of Semenov and his subordinates were laid before a court at Harbin, Manchuria, last December, and a judgment of about $475,000 was awarded the company. He gave bail, but his bondsman surrendered him and he had to stay in the Ludlow street jail, which was surrounded by crowds howling out anger and hatred.

In Washington Senator Borah began a movement to try him for the murder of American soldiers in Siberia and failing that, to deport him.

Senator Borah's move for criminal prosecution was prompted by the testimony of Brigadier General Graves, Lieutenant Colonel Morrow and others before the senate committee on education and labor, of which the senator is chairman, that Semenov has butchered American soldiers and committed atrocities against innocent men, women and children in the territory under his control.

"Willie" Peel's "Vulnerable Temper"

They are saying in England that the appointment of Lord Peel to the secretaryship of state for India involves Lord Reading's resignation of the viceroyalty, and a complete reversal of the policies of Edwin Montagu with regard to the administration of King George's great Oriental empire. For Lord Peel is not only a Unionist, but also a Conservative, imbued with all the views and traditions of the Carlton club, and has been prejudiced against Edwin Montagu, and against all his methods of government in India.

"Willie" Peel, as he used to be known in the house of commons, is blessed with a "vulnerable temper." He differs from most public men in this sense: That, instead of attempting to solve difficulties by means of quiet discussion, he prefers to go for those who are opposed to him with hammer and tongs.

Add to this that, possessed of enormous wealth, through his wife, the only child and heiress of the multi-millionaire Lord Ashton, popularly known as "the lionheart king," and having inherited from his grandfather, the great Sir Robert Peel, a name that looms large in the history of the Nineteenth century, the new secretary of state is absolutely independent of all the emoluments and advantages of office, and may be trusted to put through his view with regard to India with a strong hand.

Storm Country Polly by Grace Miller White Illustrated by R.H. Livingstone Copyright by Little, Brown and Company

CHAPTER XIII

No more unhappy girl lived in all of Tompkins county than Polly Hopkins. Seemingly never-ending days dragged by their minutes one by one. When she woke up in the morning she wished it were night! When she crawled into bed she wished it were morning! And every twenty-four hours brought renewed agony to Jerry. Pollyop spent most of her time trying to soothe him.

And thus the two little walls lived until the news spread through the Silent City that Evelyn Robertson and Marcus MacKenzie were going to be married in a fashionable church in Ithaca.

The wedding day dawned bright with sunshine; and, together with Jerry, Pollyop went into town, hid herself in the thick shrubbery in Dewitt park and watched with tormented soul the gorgeous display of riches.

She saw Evelyn in all her beauty and the resplendent Marcus; also the haughty Mrs. Robertson, leaning on the arm of Robert Percival. How pale his face was! Great tears blinded Polly's eyes as she wondered vaguely and bewilderedly if he ever thought of her. It was a long, sad night which she spent after that event, but still she lived on and carried her heavy burden in silence. Week by week she counted on her slender fingers the months which would have to be lived through before Daddy Hopkins could come home. Oh, how she wanted to steal into his arms, to lay her head against him and to be sure he was in the Silent City for ever and ever! Jerry must have him, too, and many were the promises she made to the child during the wild fall weather of the Storm country that perhaps tomorrow Daddy would come, perhaps the next day, until the child's face too gathered an expression as if he were always listening for footsteps outside the hut.

The autumn rains had no more than set in before Marcus MacKenzie took up again his persecutions of the squatters. On his return from his wedding trip he and Evelyn went to live with Mrs. Robertson for the winter.

One day Percival approached MacKenzie with another request that he use his influence to liberate Jeremiah Hopkins.

"It's wrong for his daughter to stay in such a place alone with that frail child, Marc," protested Robert earnestly.

Evelyn looked up from her sewing. In her own happiness the thought that her handsome cousin loved the squatter girl had lapsed in her memory. Her eyes went from his troubled face to her husband's. Marc's expression was dark and forbidding, and his full red lips dragged down at the corners. Her heart fluttered at the thought of his rage if by chance he got an inkling of her duplicity.

"The hussy won't be there long, my friend," returned Marcus, gritting his teeth. "I've a plan to put her out with the rest. Why you stand by those people has always puzzled me, Percival."

"They're a forlorn lot," replied Robert, flushing. "Now, what about Hopkins?"

A look of contempt settled on MacKenzie's face, and he flung out his hands as if throwing away something he detested.

"He'll serve his time," he retorted abruptly, "and when he does come back, his brats won't be where he left them."

Keeping her eyes on her husband, Evelyn uttered an exclamation. How somber and forceful he seemed with that network of wrinkles across his broad brow. Anger distorted his nostrils, and the look he had fixed upon Robert was full of compelling strength.

"You're both sickening," she broke out fretfully. "Perfectly sickening!"

"Now listen to me, Eve," ejaculated Robert, turning to her. "You know very well that I'm interested in the Hopkins family."

She did not look at him until his sentence was chopped off in confusion. Then she threw him a peculiar glance.

"Oh, I know that well enough!" she rejoined, dropping her eyes. "but what makes me so impatient is that the second you and Marc come within speaking distance, you begin an argument about them. Why can't you both make a resolution not to talk about those people?"

Her cousin walked to the window and stared out into the garden. A nervous cough came from MacKenzie.

"I won't do it, Eve," asserted Robert presently, flinging around. "Something's got to be done for Polly Hopkins. She's so young and unhappy!"

"Young and pretty, you mean, Bobs," laughed Marcus disagreeably. "Why don't you marry the trollop and put an end to your philanthropy? Bennett's dead; so he can't interfere with you!"

sharpness of his tones and the glitter in his dark eyes sent a sudden rage through her. She whirled squarely upon him. At the sight of her face he took a backward step. He had never seen the blue fade from his wife's eyes and a gleam like bright steel take its place.

"I said exactly what I meant," she told him. "I positively refuse to listen to wrangles about the Silent City. Now you both understand, don't you?"

Suddenly she went deathly pale, held out a trembling hand, and swayed as if she were going to fall. She looked so stricken and ill that Marcus caught her to him. Everything but his lovely young bride faded from his mind.

"What's the matter, dear heart?" he cried. "Sit down a minute! There! You know very well, Eve darling, I didn't mean to be brutal."

She knew he did not require an answer and gave him none; she only sobbed hysterically against his arm.

"Neither did I, Evelyn," said Robert, in a low voice.

He went to his cousin's side instantly, begging her forgiveness. The girl turned her head and impulsively kissed his hand.

"Never mind now, Bob," she said faintly. "Please go away like a good boy."

After Percival's departure, Marcus gathered his wife into his arms and sat down with her on his knees.

"There now, sweetheart!" he soothed, and he drew her head to his shoulder and kissed her. "Don't cry any more!"

"It makes me so nervous, Marcus," she explained, sitting up. "to hear quarrels between you and Robert. And—and—I don't feel very well."

"Come back here, Evelyn," He Ordered. "How Dare You Talk Like That to Me?"

MacKenzie nodded her head. "Then I'll get a doctor today," he exclaimed, much concerned.

A flush covered the girl's face, and she hid it against his coat.

"I don't need a doctor, darling," she whispered, "but I do want care and quiet. That's all!"

A strange unknown thrill shot through the man.

"Look at me, beloved," he begged, quivering. He forced his wife's face up to his and searched deep into the blue eyes.

"Eve, my love, my own darling!" was all he could say.

Then Evelyn rested in supreme happiness against her husband's breast for a long time.

One cold blistering morning a little while before Thanksgiving, Evelyn MacKenzie came down to breakfast alone. She was very pale, and her eyelids showed signs of weeping. The night before her husband had let loose the reins upon his violent temper. He had arrived home at a late hour, chafing and irritable.

Awaking his wife from a sound sleep, he demanded to know if she were cognizant of the fact that Robert Hopkins was trying to obtain a pardon for her. Several representative citizens, among whom were two distinguished lawyers, had approached him on the subject.

"And that isn't all," he fumed. "I started something else today, and he's trying to block me."

He jerked at his collar so violently that the stiff linen tore with a whining sound.

"D—n that thing," he exploded and threw the ruined neckwear on the floor. "I won't stand any more interference."

"If you don't want to bring Bob to terms," he went on, "I will! That's my word! I've held my peace as long as I can!—Good God, now, don't start to cry!"

But in spite of his imperious command, Evelyn had wept long after her husband's heavy breathing told her that he was asleep.

Next morning, walking into the dining room wearily, she found her cousin, Robert, standing near the window, his hands in his pockets. She went straight to his side.

"Bob," she breathed.

The young man turned upon her and caught the hand she laid on his arm.

"You've got to help me now, Eve," he began, without other response to her greeting. "It's all very well for Marc to take a high hand in some matters, but this thing he's planning is brutal."

"I can't do anything with him," cried the girl. "He told me about it last night; and I talked and talked I'm hoarse. Bob, why don't you go away somewhere?"

Robert shook his head sadly.

"I can't, Eve, I can't," he returned. "I know what Polly is, but she's young and—and—"

He paused, brushed back his hair and hurried on:

"I love her, that's all! If Marc continues in— Ah, here he comes."

The door flung open, and MacKenzie strode into the room. He came to a halt at the sight of his young wife and her cousin.

"What's up?" he exclaimed testily.

"Bob wants to talk to you, dear," explained Evelyn, in a conciliatory tone. She had learned in the past months that suppressing her own temper was to travel along the lines of least resistance.

"Well, have some breakfast," was the ungracious reply. "Sit down, both of you."

"I've had my breakfast," answered Robert. "I wanted to have a word with you, Marc, before you went into town. I want to buy of you at your own price all the land the squatters are on. That would relieve—"

"Squatters again, eh?" came in quick interruption. "My dear Robert," MacKenzie placed his fingers on the back of his chair and watching his wife, proceeded, "I really dislike to be abrupt in my own family and in your house, but you know there is such a thing as a man minding his own business."

A deep flush rose to Percival's brow.

"I am minding my own business," he shot back. "If it's your will to persecute a girl who's almost dead with grief, it's mine to help her if I can. This last thing you're trying to put over is abominable."

In rough impatience Marcus sat down, Evelyn dropping into her place opposite him.

"From your interest one would think you had a more intimate reason than just humanity, Robert," he sneered broadly. "Is that it?"

Into Evelyn's pale face rushed a mass of color, and she shrank back as if she had received a blow. As quickly the flush receded, leaving her whiter than before.

Robert came forward to the table.

"You're perfectly right, Marc," he confessed almost inaudibly. "I do love Polly Hopkins—I—"

MacKenzie interrupted him by rising to his feet, his handsome face suffused with anger.

"Then it's time I cleared her out," he answered. "A squatter in the family—a thief—a liar—"

Mrs. MacKenzie struggled to her feet and began to cry.

"I can't stand any more," she whimpered. "I simply can't, Marc. The way you both quarrel over those people gets on my nerves. You promised me, Marcus, you wouldn't do it again."

All the concentrated rage he had gathered in the past few weeks burst forth in a vicious snarl.

"Then tell your precious cousin to keep his nose out of my affairs, my dear! I'm perfectly capable of attending to them. I don't wish to sell that land, but I do intend to get rid of that tribe; and both of you might just as well understand it now as later."

He said it with such forceful determination that Evelyn threw an enemy glance at Robert. Uttering a sharp exclamation, he turned swiftly and went out.

The next few hours he spent in Ithaca, trying to turn aside the blow that threatened to fall upon Polly Hopkins. But so great was MacKenzie's influence that Percival's own friends shook their heads when he approached them.

Utterly cast down by the futility of his morning's work on behalf of the squatter girl, Robert Percival wended his way to the Silent City. He could not let the relentless law burst in upon Pollyop unprepared. Through the settlement he hurried to the Hopkins shanty and paused before it. There still above the door was the printed sign.

"If your heart's loving and kind come right in; if it ain't scared off."

Ah, surely he did love her in spite of what she had done. As a traveler in a dry and thirsty land longs for fresh water, so he desired Polly Hopkins. Vain had been his efforts to tear her image from his heart. Often he had been tempted to marry her and take her out of her dreadful circumstances, but each time the desire came to him, the vision of the dying farmer killed it.

Broodingly his eyes swept the narrow lake and the eastern, rearing hills. He remembered how he and Polly Hopkins had sat together on the ragged rocks, watching the clouds sweep over the sky above, like flocks of birds across wonder-blue water.

With a groan he threw off these memories, and striding forward, he rapped on the door.

Polly Hopkins opened it, looked at him, bent her head but spoke no word.

"I want to talk to you, child," was the excuse he gave; and still silent he moved backward and allowed him to enter the room.

Now that he was there, Robert felt as if he could not force his tongue to say the things she must hear. He was oppressed by his utter failure to keep the promise made that day before "The Greatest Mother in the World," and knew not how to explain it.

"Polly," he had commenced, when Pollyop, because she was so tired, so forlornly helpless, began to sob bitterly. The sight of him after all these weary days quite overcame her.

"Don't," he interjected impetuously. "Please don't do that."

Her tears only added to the remorse that scourged him and gave new vitality to his passion; but, like a wall of fire between them, burned his jealousy of Oscar Bennett.

"I want to help you," he stammered. Pollyop shook her head.

"You can't do nothin' unless you get my daddy back," she whispered. "Jerry'll die—"

This gave a slight opening, and Robert grasped at it eagerly.

"I came to talk about him," he interrupted. "Now please don't cry any more. Don't! Sit down a minute."

He placed her in a chair, going white as his hand touched her. "You say the child is ill, Pollyop?" he went on, but paused as Polly nodded her head.

"Yes, he's sick all right," she returned, wiping her eyes.

"Then perhaps if he went away somewhere, to a place where he'd have good food and care until his father—"

At his words the girl suddenly grew rigidly erect, but the piteous trembling of her lips made the young man avert his eyes.

"Squatter babies grow on the grub squatters give 'em," she replied huskily. "All they need is bread an' beans an' love," she hesitated and swallowed hard before she continued: "An' lots of love! That's what's allin' Wee Jerry. He wants his daddy!"

"But, Polly!" Robert tried to check the flow of her words, but she ran on: "He'd die sure in a strange place. Nope! Jerry stays in the shanty with me."

THE UKRAINE AN EXAMPLE

THE Ukraine (South Russia), twice as large as the British Isles, and with a pre-war population of 40,000,000, is in the grip of a famine, and the Ukraine was once known as the "granary of Europe". In pre-war years this territory produced 20,000,000 tons of wheat, 6,000,000 tons of potatoes; it marketed in 1914, 27,000,000 head of horned cattle, 8,100,000 horses, and 6,300,000 pigs; and it exported large quantities of coal, iron, manganese, and dairy products. On a tract of land near Odessa where before the war 30,000 acres were sown to wheat, not a sheaf is to be seen to-day; in another section of 80,000 acres about 100 are now under cultivation.

What is the answer? Bolshevism, better known as communism. A report from Odessa says that thousands of Ukraine peasants are flocking to the cities where they hope to eke out an existence until all danger of crop requisition by the soviets has passed. The only reason why the Ukraine held out so long was because of rich stores of grain accumulated in the days of prosperity which were shielded from the soviet commissars on the plea that they must be used for seed. Those stores have been exhausted. Nothing left to plant.

Count Ilya Tolstoy, addressing the Washington City Club recently, predicted this summer will mark the end of the bolshevist regime in Russia; that Lenin and Trotsky were at the end of their rope and that only a few weeks remain until their final and everlasting fall from power. It is to be hoped the prediction will be fulfilled. The two super-marplots should have the Russian wreckage as their funeral pyre. But they will be canonized by the I. W. W., the Plumb Planners, the Fosters and the Kate O'Hares of this country. Perhaps the horrible example which Russia has given to the United States will be our payment for the aid we have rendered her.

"I AM not here to make war on Great Britain or to sow seed against her", declared Senator Augustus Owsley Stanley, Democrat of Kentucky, to the National Society of the United Daughters of 1812 at their annual banquet in Washington, recently. "But I am here, thank God, for America. I believe with Jefferson and those other patriots of revolutionary days—friendly relations with all, but entangling alliances with none."

"THE Truth About Henry Ford" was repudiated by its hero when it was discovered that some of its most impressive statements were falsehoods. Now we have "My Life and Work" appearing in one of the popular magazines. It will be interesting to peruse the new story and see if its self-laudatory passages tally with the facts any better than the chapters of the rejected volume.

THE fight between the importers of foreign goods and the producers of American goods is now on, and we shall soon see who will win. The tariff bill is up for action in the Senate.

NEW SCHOOL DEDICATED

Lewes was thronged with visitors Tuesday to witness the dedication of the new High School. Interested persons came from all parts of the state, and compliments were given the town and its people, as well as the Delaware School Auxiliary Association, which made the fine new building possible.

The building is constructed of brick and stone with timber for reinforcing floor and roof construction. The size is approximately 180x60 feet, with an extension in the rear of 53x66 feet. The building is two stories high, the only portion in the basement being the heating and power plant. It contains 10 large class rooms, three small class rooms, and five special rooms and has a seating capacity of 475 in the regular class rooms and can take care of 125 additional in the special rooms, making a total of 600. This can be increased somewhat if the school should be run on the platoon system and the auditorium used as a regular classroom, which would seat about 650. The main body of the auditorium is furnished with movable chairs which can be taken up and stored under the stage and the auditorium used as a Gymnasium. In addition to the rooms mentioned there is a girls and boys locker room, toilet room, teachers and medical inspection room, principal's room and an outside waiting room.

The Delaware School Auxiliary Association appropriated $200,000 of the cost of the work and the Lewes Special School District, $50,000. The building was constructed by the duPont Engineering Co., the actual contract price being $193,029.42. This building was designed by Guilbert & Betelle, architects, Newark, New Jersey.

ANTS CRAVE HOOTCH

Also Skillful Grafters and Enjoy Equal Suffrage.

Prof. William M. Wheeler, Who Has Made Careful Study of the Busy Little Fellow, Gives Some Interesting Information.

Cambridge, Mass.—Ants are like people—they like booze, they enjoy woman suffrage and many of them are skillful grafters—is the observation of Prof. William M. Wheeler, dean of the Bussey museum at Harvard university. He has recently completed a tour of the world for the purpose of learning what he could about the busy little fellows.

Professor Wheeler invaded many lands, traveling through dangerous parts of Africa, Asia and other localities, in his hunt for scientific knowledge. He became acquainted with about 10,000 species of ants during his travels.

"The similarity between these insects and humans is striking," he comments. "Three fundamentals guide their lives like ours; they are hunger, sex, and fear."

"In most insect orders the female is in control," he says, reminding that more than one expert has predicted this future for mankind.

"The numerous grafters among the ants remind us of our own kind. Large number of ants—like humans—manage to get their living without working for it."

Prof. Wheeler found the booze-loving ants in large numbers in the tropics. Whenever they get the chance, he explains, they will climb all over—and into if possible, the wine, beer and rum casks sent that area. They like the stuff and they get helplessly intoxicated on it, too, he declares.

Prof. Wheeler points to other valuable lessons; he says:

"If all individuals in the ant colonies were permitted to have families without restraint the population would soon outrun any possible food supply. The higher 'social' ants have overcome this difficulty by restricting reproduction, except when food is particularly abundant."

"The societies of man and insect are analogous, but the insect is the simpler. He is more mechanical in his way of doing things. He sticks to routine. But by watching a swarm of ants at work or play, any careful observer will note many of the characteristics prominent with humans prominent with ants also. He will see manifestations of co-operation between some, of jealousy, of anger, of laziness and of dishonor on the part of others."

RUSS TROOPS TO QUIT CHINA
Promise to Leave When Peking and Mongolian Governments Reach Agreements.

Peking.—The Russian soviet government, maintaining the most friendly feeling toward China, is willing to recall all its troops from the Mongolian border, according to a written declaration made by A. Paikes, special soviet envoy, who has been discussing Mongolian affairs with Gen. L. Yuan, representative of China.

The statement, which was put in writing at the request of the Chinese representative, asserts that the soviet government has no aggressive intentions in Mongolia, and is maintaining troops there only at the insistence of the people's revolutionary government of Mongolia.

Russia, says the statement, "awaits with impatience the time when the Chinese government comes to an arrangement with the people's government in Mongolia and makes possible the withdrawal of all Red Guards from that territory."

BACK FROM TRIP TO WONDERLAND

Alice Bradley, Six Years Old, Member of Expedition Into Wilds of Belgian Congo.

HAS EXCITING ADVENTURES

Sees Lions and Other Inhabitants of Jungle Shot and Giant Gorillas Captured—Finds and Found by Pygmies.

New York.—Carl E. Akeley, big game hunter, returned on the Baltic from his fourth expedition to the Belgian Congo, bringing back five huge gorilla skins to be mounted and a wealth of new data for the American Museum of Natural History.

But this is of scientific interest in subordination to the chief figure in his party, who is six-year-old Alice Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley of Chicago. Mrs. Bradley is Mary Hastings Bradley, the novelist. While her parents and the others of the party gathered more specimens and cold facts, Alice experienced a series of Alice-in-Wonderland adventures.

Finds and Found by Pygmies.
In the Congo belt, west of Nyanza Victoria, she saw the pygmy tribe of Africa, and they discovered her, the first white child they had ever seen. They considered her distinctly mature, however, for she was taller than the tallest member of the tribe.

"The chief," she could report with pride, "was very much surprised by my curls. He thought they came off."

So far as known, no white women had ever before been to the inner reaches of the Belgian Congo, where the trail of the expedition led. Alice, maintaining perfect health throughout the journey, was reported by her nurse, Miss Priscilla Hall, to be an irrepressible source of constant apprehension.

She watched in spellbound delight while lions, known to most children only in the relative docility of the circus cage, were shot with other inhabitants of the jungle. Of the five gorilla trophies selected to be brought home, one stood 5 feet 8 inches in height. His chest measured nearly 5 feet and he weighed 350 pounds.

Soft About Gorillas.

Miss Martha Miller, Professor Akeley's secretary, also one of the party, seemed tender-hearted about the gorillas, unless one caught the suspicious twinkle in her brown eyes.

"The so-called man-eating gorillas," she said, "are really very tame creatures and I do not believe they would fight unless they were cornered and absolutely compelled to do so. It seemed cruel to shoot them."

Mrs. Bradley participated in the hunting and bagged two gorillas and several lions. Miss Miller likewise brought down a lion or two.

Professor Akeley, also noted as an inventor of the cement gun and the Akeley camera, set out on this latest expedition for science in August, 1921, for the American Museum of Natural History, where many of the specimens of his former trips are mounted, among them giant elephants, which he has also sculptured in clay. His specific purpose on this trip was to get gorilla specimens.

FUNNEL IS THEIR CLUB ROOM

Seamen on the Rampant Go There When They Find the Night Air Too Chilly.

Seattle, Wash.—When sailors of the North Asiatic steamship Rampant find the night sea air too chilly they retire into the vessel's capacious funnel, light their pipes and warm themselves in the most unique clubroom afloat.

If the smoke-stack becomes over-warm they open a door in its side; if they desire their laundry dried they pick it into the draft tube and the scheme works like a charm.

The Rampant was converted from a steamer during the war into a motorship with 1,800 horse power Diesel engines. The smokestack, however, was not disturbed, but instead fitted with floors on each deck and the top roofed over.

The ship has a steam donkey lifting engine whose smokestack passes up through the funnel, furnishing the warmth for the comfort of the lounging sailors.

Sweet Daphne's "Hope Box"

By MURIEL BLAIR.

Copyright, 1921, Watana Newspaper Union

"How very nice of Nellie," said Mary Lincoln, as she and her best friend Daphne Willis, parted at the village post office after receiving and opening two boxes, exactly alike.

"The lace is exquisite," spoke Daphne, gazing with taste and pleasure over the neck collar neatly done up in tissue paper with a dainty sachet bag beside it. "Nellie is very thoughtful."

They had been great friends, those three. All through Nellie's engagement Mary and Daphne had been closest to her of her many acquaintances. She had promised not to forget them when she reached the city on her wedding tour. Now Nellie had redeemed her promise.

"I shall wear the collar at the regular club party next week," said Mary. "You will be there, Daphne?"

"I think not. My aunt is not very well, you know, and needs me most of the time. Besides," and Daphne gave a nervous laugh, "I fear I am getting past the party age, Mary."

"Nonsense!" cried her devoted friend. "Twenty-three and you look like sixteen."

"I shall put the collar away in my 'hope box,'" said Daphne.

Just here Mary made a pretense of clenching her pretty pink and white fists and grinding her pearly teeth in a faint of the most dreadful rage.

"Daphne Willis," she scolded severely, "if ever I happen across that 'hope box' of yours, I'll—I'll stamp on it; yes, I will."

"That's enough!" retorted Daphne, closing the cheery lips of her staunch champion with a kiss. "I know I am beginning to feel very old, and I think it a duty to be prepared if any likely old bachelor—why, yes, even some respectable widower—should happen along, you know!"

It was all a joke, Daphne's "hope box," a feminine conceit that appealed to Daphne because it led to pleasant quip and gossip among her bright girl friends. In her own mind Daphne felt pretty well convinced that she would never marry.

Her "hope box" was a satin-lined cedar chest, given to her by a dear girl friend one birthday.

It was nearly a year after the wedding of Nellie that Daphne received a letter from a cousin who lived at Merton. She had been in correspondence regularly with this relative, and several times Miss Dalby had referred to a neighbor, a Mr. Paul Barnes.

"I have great news for you, Daphne," this last letter ran. "I have often told you what a fine young man Mr. Barnes was. His parents left him quite an estate, and I suppose he got lonely in the old homestead. At any rate, he is about to marry, and what do you think? he has picked out the poorest girl in the village. It is one Lina Temple. She is so poor her folks cannot afford any kind of an outfit, and very quietly some friends and myself are helping her out. If you have any little trifle to contribute, I shall be glad."

Goat-headed Daphne had something of a struggle with herself. Then her generous soul impelled a sacrifice.

"I shall never marry," she said to herself. "I shall be making some one happy," and the "hope box" went to Miss Dalby.

Two months later Daphne's aunt died. It was natural that Miss Dalby should ask her to make her home with her. This she did, and Daphne found herself installed at Merton.

"I have often thought of the wedding you wrote me about," observed Daphne, the first evening of her arrival.

"Oh, did I never write you?" exclaimed Miss Dalby. "The match was broken off. We got up quite a handsome outfit for Lina Temple. She never used it, for she eloped with a circus performer two days before the date for the wedding."

"And Mr. Barnes?" inquired Daphne. "I think, secretly, he was relieved, for the girl was not of his class—headstrong, capricious, all for tinsel and glitter."

Of course, Daphne met Paul Barnes, and there seemed to spring up a mutual interest between them. One evening as he stood at the garden gate, the tender influences of the sweet June night seemed to blind him lingeringly to the spot.

"You are a good friend, Miss Willis," he said. "I never told you, but I have heard of your kind thought to make happy the young lady I at one time thought to make my wife. Shall we walk to the lake and back? It is such a beautiful evening," he suggested, and there was a strange, wistful tremor in his voice.

Daphne listened to words that rang so true their echo thrilled and lingered, even as she came back to the house, her heart beating with the joy of a new-found happiness, her face radiant with telltale blushes.

She went up to where Miss Dalby sat and put her arms around her, and told her conscious face on her shoulder.

"Dear cousin," she whispered, "you told me you had stored my old 'hope box' in the garret."

"Yes, dear," replied Miss Dalby, smiling wisely.

"I should like to have it back again, if you please," said sweet Daphne Willis.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

Let us all remember that, valuable as is the gift of speech, silence is often more valuable.

If more and better work needs to be done today illustrate the manner of it by referring to the admirable way in which something was done yesterday.

When the mind is established the heart is more likely to be firm. Know your duty and the arguments for it, and you are the more likely to be steadfast in the hour of temptation.

MAN OF FAITH AND LEARNING

Origin Considered One of the Greatest of the Early Church Fathers—Upheld Christian Faith.

Origen, surnamed Adamantius, who lived from 183 to 254 A. D., is considered by some authorities as the greatest of the early church fathers. Alexandria, in Egypt, the great seat of learning of the time, is thought to have been his birthplace. He was a teacher and deep student of philosophy and of the Scriptures, and he became a great defender of the Christian faith. His literary productions were numerous and several have come down to the modern world, among them being a treatise on theology, a few sermons or discourses of that nature, parts of commentaries on the Gospels of St. Matthew and St. John and St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans. His greatest work is his defense of Christianity against the attacks in the writings of Celsus, an Epicurean philosopher of the second century. Celsus' work is not extant, but the character of it is made clear in Origen's refutation, which contains many quotations, and Origen's line of argument indicates clearly the line of attack followed by Celsus. The attacks upon Christianity by infidel critics are simply repetitions of Celsus' objections, which Origen answered about seventeen hundred years ago.

Where Business Moves Slowly.

Business methods are invariably slow in the Near East, according to Miss Grace Willis, who has returned recently from a period of service with the Y. W. C. A. in Constantinople, Stamboul and Beirut. "It takes at least a half a day to deposit a check and even longer to draw one out," says Miss Willis. "The general condition that exists in business houses is undoubtedly due to the fact that so many nationalities, each with their own way of doing things, are gathered under one roof. The girls of the Near East are particularly keen for business courses and there is a tremendous demand in the many commercial houses for well-trained clerical workers and stenographers. I consider that when, from the business courses given by the Y. W. C. A., efficient business women have been turned out after nine months' training, a remarkable piece of work has been accomplished."

Scarcity of Bears.

Halifax, Canada.—A scarcity of bears and wild cats, on the snouts of which the municipality pays bounties, is reported. During the year 1921 only $148 was paid for bounties, while not many years ago it ran up to $500, and a great many bears were included. Now the bounties that are paid are chiefly for wild cats.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dunn, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

Frocks for the Summer Season

It is hardly a slip from spring things into summer things. And the French couturiers have a way of slipping both of the seasons at once upon our bewildered senses, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times. Of course, there are many of their designs which can be applied to either season, but when we begin to separate the summer things—those for early summer most particularly—we find fascinating models worthy of our most careful consideration.

The French cleave always to simple designs. Nothing else has the least interest for the Parisian dressmaker. So that, naturally, we expect to find more or less plainness of design among their summer dresses; which type of frock holds itself most conspicuously to the conventional methods of treatment. But the way they have of varying simplicity is a matter of constant astonishment even to expectant on-lookers. They will conceive a new way of handling gingham which is so ultra plain that the only remark we can think of to make is, "Why didn't I think of that first?" But that is the whole point. It takes the French to think of it first. That is the way their originality makes itself felt.

In the shops all sorts of new gingham and organdies and cottons of varying sorts are making their appearance and these, mixed with the silk dresses and coats which will be such conspicuous portions of the summer wardrobe, are succeeding in making the dressmaking salons look like so many bright garden spots.

It seems as though there is far more leaning toward the wearing of real summer clothes than there has been for some years. The fact is that they are made in so tailored a manner that they can be worn either in the country or in town, and for the hot days they are very much in demand by all women, no matter where they reside.

Fashioned From Two Materials. So many of the warm weather frocks, whether they are made of silk or of cotton, are fashioned from two materials. That is, they will have either their upper half or their lower half made of one sort of fabric and the other portion made of some contrasting weave and color. These are among the most attractive of the new summer things.

Then there is one very new and popular dress that is made of either tulle or silk, with the skirt and coat of matching material. Then the bodice section, which is made on extremely long-waisted lines, has a row of large buttons ranged round its lower edge and to these the skirt buttons with big buttonholes. Between the buttonholes there are loose portions of the skirt allowed to bulge out and supply the necessary fulness to the skirt. Sometimes these bodices are made of a fine quality of white pique which is stiff enough to form the necessary body to which the skirt is attached. Others of them have pounce used for the waist purpose, and either the one or the other of these materials looks very well indeed.

Taffeta is one of the materials which is used for summer dresses this season. They are not only the evening frocks, but also those, in plainer designs, for afternoon, and even for street wear. Of course, the darker colors of this silk are chosen for the two latter uses, and they are then made up most simply, but the crispness of the silk and the charm of the designs of the new frocks make them positively irresistible. Crepe dresses, of course, still hold good in a perfectly remarkable degree, but there are many places and occasions where the taffeta ones will be the very best things to be found. One always looks fresh and snappy in a frock of stiff taffeta, and if one has the figure to stand the puffiness of the designs of these dresses, then one can hardly keep from having at least one of them.

Short and Tight Sleeves. The French designers are still—or again—using short and tight sleeves for their summer frocks. They seem to know that there is no other portion of a gown that looks so cool as the one that clasps tightly about the arm and allows those long, white, bare arms to show and to be really cool. So, if you are at all inclined to want to wear short, little, close-fitting sleeves, why, then, you are privileged to go as far as you like and to design your own dresses according to your own tastes.

An excellent type of gingham dress was made from a red and white Rodier fabric in a soft, thin woolen material, but it is peculiarly well adapted to the use of gingham or chintz or ratine or any of those heavier cotton materials. The little Brambleigh collar is somewhat in this design, changed so that it hugs more closely about the throat and the little edging of linen, from which material the collar and cuffs are made, is carried in a strip down the entire length of the skirt. There was a black ribbon bow under the chin, and the girl wore a drooping black straw hat with red dahlias massed about the base of the crown.

The waistline of this plain little frock is placed at an entirely normal angle and the belt which holds it in place there is made of white kid to repeat the other white touches on the frock. The bodice is but slightly bloused and the sleeves are gathered a trifle at the place where they meet the flaring and turned-back cuffs.

The summer suit or the suit for early spring is a portion of women's attire which must be considered all by itself. It is something which is so necessary, but if it is too thick or even too thin, why then it falls entirely to serve the very purpose for which it was meant. It must be weighty enough to serve for the cooler days and thin enough to make it possible for wear on days which become pretty well heated.

Will Use Heavier Silks This Season

This season many of these suits will be made of the heavier silks. Some of them will be made of the cotton ratines. Others of them, of course, will be made from the lighter weight serges and varieties of cashmere which are new upon the market. But as for the designs of the suits they will vie with the dresses for utter simplicity. Some of the coats are boxed. Some of them are made on cape lines without any linings and some of them are little short-belted jackets with rather full peplums that flare out above the hips. There will be linen suits, of course, and some made of those cotton materials which are a combination of cotton and linen and which do not mess with nearly so much ease as those which are made from pure linen. There is one of the belted suits made of white linen which shows a very faint dark blue stripe. There is a crossed waistcoat of printed linen or blocked linen, as they call it, and this shows both the blue and white with sprinklings of vivid orange in the design. The coat is an excellent illustration of those little ones that are belted low about the hips, and the skirt is made with just a little extra fullness at the side, where it is made to close under two or three flatly pressed plaits.

There are other suits made of ratine which show the whole bodice constructed of a piece of brightly toned chintz in the gayest of patterns. Of course this brilliant piece of pattern only shows as the coat falls apart at front, but there it does full justice to itself in creating, really, the whole decoration of the suit. This is a costume suit in its best sense, and one that will be able to serve more than one purpose through the hot summer.

Hand-Painted Organdie Hats. Even organdie hats are to be hand painted and embroidered this summer, whispers Dame Rumor. White and pastel organdies certainly make an ideal background for delicate designs.

Panels of Fan Pleating. A gown of white crepe de chine has panels of fan pleating and bands of tiny black rose.

HOW TO HAVE BEAUTIFUL HANDS

Good Manicuring Materials Necessary and Daily Attention Should Be Given the Nails.

In order to keep "fit" at all times, the hands should be manicured with a good set of manicuring materials daily. Mindy should include in her manicuring paraphernalia such articles as different shaped orange sticks, emery boards, a strong, well-padded chamomile polisher, a file, a pair of delicately curved scissors and an assortment of reliable nail cosmetics. By the conscientious use of this outfit any woman can carry beautiful hands to an old age.

Emery boards are suitable to use for filing the nails; cutting them with scissors usually tends to make them brittle. There is a knack in trimming the nails to obtain a natural curve. First, one side should be filed, then the other, and last of all, the center. This method preserves the symmetry. Of course, one should not attempt to trim the nails without softening them by soaking first in water. The shape of the nail curve, whether slender or broad, and slightly rounded, is governed, of course, by the shape of the fingers.

To massage the skin at the root of the nails and polish them at the same time, bend the fingers at the first joint onto the palm of the hand and rub the nails briskly on the palm of the other hand. This stimulates and strengthens the nails and provides the skin at the roots with fresh blood supply.

Laces for Frocks. Laces retain a strong hold, and are shown in new patterns. They, too, undergo the process of embellishment, by such enhancing means as accentuating motifs in self-colored rolled cotton beads, of decking them in colored, preferably metal, lines. A novel treatment of lace was developed upon a flat net ground, a checked surface being achieved in wool weaving.

CAPES AND CAPE WRAPS; HAT BRIMS ARE WIDENING

ON MANY a sunny day gentle spring suddenly turns the cold shoulder to confiding mortals. But we have long ago learned to expect it, and thereby hangs the tale of wraps for spring. Every year we must prepare ourselves for emergencies of chilly weather that drops in on a winter-weary world just when the calendar is holding out every promise of balmy days. Since we must have wraps we demand that they interpret spring and be smart, and even swaggy.

After a review of the styles it is evident that the smart set among hat brims grow wider; for the short skirt is not a natural ally of picturesque hats. Skirts are longer and brims are widening. Encouraged by the mounting summer sun there is no telling just how far they will go, but they will not eclipse the small hat. It rules a realm of its own and is secure in it.

The group of new millinery shown here leads off with a small tailored hat having an upturned brim, faced with tucked taffeta and trimmed with two quills thrust through the silk. It is covered with a highly lustrous millery fabric and is one of the most successful of the spring's tailored models. Next to it appears a pretty brimmed hat in white with a silk crown and braid brim. It is finished with a wide collar of ribbon, made by weaving two narrow ribbons together. A handsome, early arrival among the new wide-brimmed hats, as pictured, is covered with black taffeta and faced with braid. A wreath of simulated foliage made of taffeta folds is a clever bit of artistry that dis-tingles this all-black model. Placed last, but in the lead so far as popularity is concerned, appears a straw shape with wide, lacey brim. It has a slash of ribbon, ending in three loops at each side and a generous half-wreath of blossoms across the front.

GROUP OF NEW MILLINERY

As a rival to this substantial and beautiful garment the picture presents a dressy wrap made of a soft coating. It has a yoke and dolman sleeves and appears to be a member of the cape family that has made departures from family traditions. But it achieves a cape effect by means of a deep silk fringe across the back, falling from the yoke. Always, when skirts grow longer, brimmed black hat, with large red-and-black fancy feather ornaments. Linen dresses employ the wide boat-shaped neck, composed of a narrow finishing band confining shirred fullness both back and front.

Very large soft-brimmed hats are being shown for summer. They are invariably ornamented heavily with flowers.

GOOD EVERYDAY DISHES

Cheese muffins make a good breakfast or luncheon dish. Prepare them as follows: To one quarter of a cupful of sugar add two table-spoonfuls of butter, a teaspoonful of salt to one cupful each of milk and water scalded together. Cool until lukewarm and add one-half of a yeast cake dissolved in one-quarter of a cupful of lukewarm water, one beaten egg and four cupfuls of flour. Beat thoroughly, cover and let rise until light; beat again; fill buttered muffin tins two-thirds full and sprinkle generously with grated cheese; let rise until the pans are full, then bake twenty-five minutes.

Cheese Biscuit.—Take two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, then gradually work into this with a fork a quarter of a pound of soft cheese and one cupful of water. Mix well, roll out and cut with a biscuit cutter. Bake fifteen to twenty minutes.

Either as a dinner salad or when the main course at luncheon has been light, cheese salad will be found an addition to the meal. To two cupfuls of whipped cream add one cupful of grated cheese, salt and pepper to season, and two tablespoonfuls of gelatin dissolved in one and one-half cupfuls of water. Pour into individual molds, and when almost set sprinkle well with grated cheese. Serve with mayonnaise and with a green salad plant.

Potato Salad.—Slice thin six boiled potatoes, add two small onions also thinly sliced, two small cucumbers, or two sweet cucumber pickles finely chopped, one teaspoonful of salt, a handful of shredded almonds previously blanched, paprika, six table-spoonfuls of olive oil and two table-spoonfuls of vinegar. Mix well and serve on lettuce.

Endive Soup.—Wash, trim and shred three heads of endive, put them into a saucepan with four tablespoonfuls of butter and one small shredded onion, stir and toss until well covered with butter, add a quart of water and cook until the endive can be rubbed through a sieve; add cream or milk and a tablespoonful of butter cooked with one of flour. Season to taste with salt and cayenne, and serve hot.

Corn and Potato Salad.—Cut up two or three boiled potatoes, add a table-spoonful of cooked corn left over from the fresh corn cooked on the cob, add a bit of minced onion and any desired dressing.

A little rule—a little way
A sunbeam in a winter's day
Is all the proud and mighty have Between the cradle and the grave.
—John Dyer.

HOT BREADS

There are any number of hot breads which may be made from the same foundation. Take one cupful of liquid, milk or half milk and water, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt and three tablespoonfuls of butter. The amount of yeast will depend upon the time needed for rising before the rolls are needed. If six hours, one-half of a cake of yeast will be sufficient. If but two hours in which to prepare the rolls use two or three cakes of yeast and keep the mixture in a warm place well covered.

Beat the mixture, adding enough flour to make a batter easily beaten with a spoon; put to rise and as soon as it is double its bulk, shape it into rolls and let rise again until double its bulk. When there is time, if the dough is cut down once or twice before shaping into rolls, the rolls will be much tenderer. One may increase the shortening and sugar; add eggs to increase the food value of the rolls.

Kromes.—Prepare the above dough and when risen to double its bulk make into small rolls and set to rise. Place these on a buttered pan far enough apart to bake with a complete crust about each. When the biscuits have become light punch a hole in the center and fill it level full with melted butter and half a teaspoonful of cinnamon and sugar mixture. Use one part cinnamon to three parts sugar. Let them rise until very light and bake in a hot oven.

Coffee Cake.—Roll out a sheet of the dough until it fills a dripping pan. Spread well with softened butter and sprinkle generously with brown sugar mixed with cinnamon. Raisins may be stirred into the dough before rolling out or they may be chopped and added with the sugar. When well risen bake in a moderate oven.

Grated lemon peel, orange peel, apples, prunes or other fruit may be used as flavoring and decoration for hot breads.

Clover Leaf Rolls.—Grease gem pans and place three small biscuits in each, greasing each well with butter. Cover and let rise until very light. Bake in a hot oven.

Rules for Home Making. Three rules for making a home attractive were recently given to a young married couple by an interior decorator. They were: Provide the necessary utilities, arrange an agreeable color scheme and, the final one, make the place livable.

Nothing New. Narratives in prehistoric manuscripts recently unearthed in Greece are of little interest. Most of us have heard them all in after-dinner speeches—James J. Montague.

Selfish Ambition. Jesus warned His disciples against selfish ambition. Do not let any one tell you that it is a wrong thing for a man to have ambition. Without it a man will never accomplish anything of value. But ambition is perilous when it is entirely selfish and will then seek its ends no matter who suffers from it. Selfish ambition has often drenched the world in war and bloodshed.

1. Hezekiah Proclaims a Passover (vv. 1-18).

The way for a sinning and divided people to get back to God and be united, is around the crucified Lord.

1. The Invitation Was Representative of the Nation (v. 2a). The king took counsel with the princes and the congregation to show that the proclamation was the expression of the nation's desire.

2. The Time Was Unusual (v. 2b-4). There was not sufficient time to sanctify the people, nor to gather them together at the regular time, so they resolved instead of postponing it for a year to hold it on the fourteenth day of the second month. This liberty had been granted before in an emergency (Num. 9:6-13). This flexibility with reference to the holding of the passover shows that God's ordinances were made for man and not man for the ordinances.

3. The Scope of the Invitation (vv. 5-9). It included all of both nations who would come to keep the passover to the Lord God of Israel. "Israel" is now used to include both kingdoms. The effort was to win back the nation which had seceded. The posts who were sent with the message were authorized to supplement the proclamation with urgent exhortation to join as a united nation. This urgent invitation was tactfully put as follows:

(1) It touched ancestral memories—"Turn again unto the Lord God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel" (v. 6). Both kingdoms had a common ancestry. (2) Recent bitter experience—"Be not like your fathers, and brethren, who trespassed against the Lord God, and were given up to desolation, as ye see" (v. 7). This was a delicate subject, but their ruin was so marked that such truth could be pressed. (3) Yearning for captive kinsfolk—"Your brethren and children shall find compassion before their captors" (v. 9). (4) The instinct of self-preservation—"So that they shall come again into this land" (v. 9). (5) The forgiving mercy of God (v. 9). God will not turn any sincere seeker away from Him. "Him that cometh unto Me I will in no wise cast out" (John 6:37).

4. Israel's Reception of the Invitation (vv. 10-12). This invitation in Israel met a mingled reception. (1) Some mocked. The urgent and sincere invitation only excited opposition and ridicule. (2) Some with humble hearts came to Jerusalem. This is ever the case. The gospel is a savor of life unto life and death unto death.

5. The Passover Kept (vv. 13-27). 1. Altars Removed (vv. 13, 14). In the time of Ahab (ch. 23-24), these heathen altars were erected in Jerusalem. Before there could be worship of the true God all these traces of idolatry must be removed. This act of the people was voluntary, and shows that a right spirit actuated them.

2. The Passover Killed (v. 15). The zeal of the people was shown in going forward with the service, though the priests were not ready for their task. 3. The Priests and Levites Assured (vv. 15-20). The zeal of the people put to shame the priests and Levites. They were stimulated to perform their duties according to the law of God as given by Moses. They even took charge of the killing of the passover, since many of the officers were not sanctified so as to render this service for themselves. Though unprepared ceremonially, yet they took part in this most sacred service and were accepted as worshippers through the intercession of Hezekiah. God accepted the purpose of heart rather than the letter of the law.

4. The Praise of Glad Hearts (vv. 21, 22). They continued seven days with gladness: (1) The Levites and priests sang God's praise daily on loud instruments (v. 21). (2) Hezekiah's comforting words to the Levites (v. 22). He commended them and their teaching of the knowledge of God. (3) They made confession of their sins to God (v. 22).

5. The Passover Prolonged Seven Days (vv. 23-27). The king's object in prolonging the feast was to make as lasting an impression as possible, so as to result in the thorough conversion of their souls to God. The rejoicing was taken part in by even the strangers that came out of Israel. Not since the days of Solomon was there such an occasion.

Things to Put Aside. But now ye also put off all these; anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy communication out of your mouth. Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds; and have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him; where Christ is all and in all—Colossians 3:8-11.

Selfish Ambition. Jesus warned His disciples against selfish ambition. Do not let any one tell you that it is a wrong thing for a man to have ambition. Without it a man will never accomplish anything of value. But ambition is perilous when it is entirely selfish and will then seek its ends no matter who suffers from it. Selfish ambition has often drenched the world in war and bloodshed.

HAS FIRST WELL DAY IN 6 YEARS

Huntington Citizen Could Neither Sleep Nor Eat With Any Satisfaction Before He Got Tanlac.

"Before taking Tanlac I had not seen a well day in six years," said W. R. Peoples, 328 22nd St., Huntington, W. Va.

"It seemed like I had lost my health for good. I could neither sleep nor eat with satisfaction. I was badly run down, nervous, had no appetite and had to force down every mouthful I ate. Even then my food soured. I would fill up with gas until I had intense pains in my stomach and chest. Headache almost drove me mad, rheumatism in my arms, shoulder and hips kept me in pain all the time, and I had to force myself to work."

"Tanalac went right after my troubles. On four bottles I gained ten pounds and the rheumatism and stomach trouble soon left me. My wife has given a statement about the good Tanlac did her, and I am glad to add my endorsement of this wonderful medicine."

Tanalac is sold by all good druggists.

Predictions.
Visionaries are predicting that the airplane will take the place of the auto.

A few years ago, they were predicting that the auto would "drive out the horse."

Now comes the government, reporting that the country still has 19,000,000 horses, compared with 10,833,113 in 1910.

We have about 10,000,000 motor cars, along with nearly twice as many horses as twelve years ago—and find we need both.

That will be the auto's future. Airplanes will fly by millions. Use of auto will increase. The two together will be insufficient to furnish man with enough transportation, one thing we are always behind on.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper—Advertisement.

Doctor Advised Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Happy Results in Both Cases

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"Both of my sides ached and hurt me so that I could not move or do any of my work. There was heavy pressure and pains through my lower organs and the doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for these troubles. He said I had this one chance, and if the Vegetable Compound did not help me nothing but an operation would. After taking several bottles I felt it was helping me, and now I am able to do my own work. If my testimonial will help others I shall be glad for them to read it and hope your Vegetable Compound will do them as much good as it did me."

YOUTHFUL RADIO WIZARD EQUIPS FLIVVER WITH WIRELESS OUTFIT

George Frost, seventeen-year-old president of Lane Technical High School Radio club, has equipped his flivver with a radio phone. The antenna is carried on the top of the coupe body on four sticks, placed at each corner. Young Frost uses a loud speaker with the set and in the tests the music and other radio messages could be heard at some distance from the car.

Frost is a senior. He already has been called upon to do several complicated jobs of radio installation.

GARAGE OWNERS DISREGARD LAW

Secretary Emerson Says Cars Brought in for Repairs Are Not Registered.

INCREASING NUMBER OF CARS

Legislature Finds It Difficult to Keep Pace With Conditions—Bul. letins Would Assist in Finding Stolen Autos.

Few public garages are complying with the law requiring the registration of all automobiles brought in for storage or repairs, Secretary of State Emerson (Illinois) declares.

The legislature, Secretary Emerson asserted, is finding difficulty in keeping pace with conditions brought about by the increasing number of automobiles and the garage registration law was passed as an intended aid to the recovery of stolen cars.

Twenty-five years ago, the secretary pointed out, there were four automobiles in the United States. Today the number is something like 10,500,000.

Pass Mark Last Year.
"In Illinois," he said, "our hard road system is predicted upon the expectation of a continued prosperity for the automobile trade. In 1917, when the $900,000 bond issue was adopted, careful estimates were made of a probable automotive future. It was estimated that the saturation point would be 600,000 cars and that this point would be reached in 1924. We passed this mark last year and will exceed it by 100,000 this year."

"Of all the automobile laws the one most generally ignored is that requiring garage owners to keep a register of the numbers of all automobiles brought into the garage."

"If it is a good law it should be observed and if it is not a good law it should be repealed."

"The purpose of the law was to assist in finding stolen automobiles."

"I am required, under an act of the last general assembly, to issue a weekly bulletin, giving the numbers of all stolen automobiles which are reported to me by the police officers and sheriffs in various sections of the state. These bulletins are sent to all police officers and sheriffs and if each garage kept a register of cars brought in for repairs or storage it would greatly aid in finding the missing automobiles."

Protects Garage Man.
"In many instances it would be a protection to the garage owner. Not long ago a garage owner wrote in and asked to have a special number given to an engine of an automobile which he had in storage in his shop. In order that he might sell the car to pay for storage and repairs. Investigation showed that the car had been brought in, a number of accessories ordered put on it, and the owner had never called for it. The engine number had been effaced. Evidently the car had been stolen. We refused to issue the special number because it would be aiding in the disposal of a stolen automobile."

"If the garage owner had obeyed the law and looked for the number when the car was brought in he would have discovered use deception and prevented the running up of a bill for storage and accessories."

Clean Distributor Head.
Do not overlook the distributor head in your spring cleaning. Remove it carefully and clean out the dust around the segments with gasoline and a cloth. If the segments are very black use fine sandpaper and wipe off carefully afterward. Finish with a little oil on finger.

Why Castoria?

YEARS ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Have You Tried It?

Everybody has read the above headline; how many believe it? Have you a little one in the home, and has that dear little mite when its stomach was not just right felt the comforts that come with the use of Fletcher's Castoria? You have heard the cry of pain. Have you heard them cry for Fletcher's Castoria? Try it.

Just help baby out of its trouble tomorrow with a taste of Castoria. Watch the difference in the tone of the cry, the look in the eye, the wiggle in the tiny fingers. The transformation is complete—from pain to pleasure. Try it.

You'll find a wonderful lot of information about Baby in the booklet that is wrapped around every bottle of Fletcher's Castoria.

HAD SPEECH WITH GOVERNOR

Certainly Short, but the Incident Gladdened the Heart of This Indiana Small Boy.

When Governor McCray and others boarded an interurban to visit the new reformatory site at Pendleton they found the car already well filled. The governor sat down by a small boy from Fortville and a moment later asked him to exchange seats with another member of the party so that they could continue a conversation. Shortly afterward, the lad's seatmate disclosed to the boy that it was the governor he had accommodated.

The incident made an impression and when the boy reached home he boasted to his father that he had seen the governor and had spoken to him. "Is that so?" said his dad, skeptically, "and what did the governor say to you?"

"Oh," he said, "would you just as soon sit in that seat over there son?" —Indianapolis News.

Hog Pedigrees to Have Monument.
A monument is to be erected to commemorate the beginning of the practice of writing pedigrees for hogs. The first such pedigree, oldest records show, were written in 1875 for Poland China hogs on the farm owned in Blue Ball, Ohio, by W. C. Hankinson. Part of the necessary funds for the monument has been raised by the Ohio State Poland China Breeders' association, and the Hankinson estate, which still owns the farm, has consented to the erection of the monument on the property. The monument is to be dedicated in August.

Expansive Love.
Ethel—Oh, Richard, when we are married I don't think I could live in a little flat.
Fiance—You don't love me when you say that, Ethel.
Ethel—Oh, yes, I do; but not on such a small scale.

If you organize, each must give up something.

Even sickness is well when it ends well.

Holder for Starting Crank.
Arrangement Outlined for Keeping Device in Place Will Be Found Very Effective.

On some older types of automobiles no provision was made for securing the starting crank when it was disengaged. The arrangement shown here with for holding the starting crank is easy to make and apply and will be found very effective. The sketch shows the usual jaw-clutch shaft held in a bearing fastened to the underside of the radiator channel.

The crank-holding device consists of a hardened steel pin driven in the large part of the clutch shaft so that it will engage the slot plate when the spring forces the shaft outward. When cranking the motor the pin clears the slot plate. The pin is either a drive fit in the clutch shaft or is threaded. If the shaft is hardened it will be necessary to anneal it before trying to drill the holes.—W. Burr Bennett, in Popular Science Monthly.
